

ITALY BOMBARDS ETHIOPIA

1,700 Killed and Wounded, Claim

Il Duce's Forces Led by Son-in-law With Two Sons Piloting Attacking Planes; No Resistance Met at River, Crossed in Four Places

By International News Service

The long-planned war between Italy and Ethiopia began today.

Italian land and air forces, led by Count Ciano, Premier Mussolini's son-in-law, invaded Ethiopia from Asmara, attacking Adowa, Agame, and Adigrat with an aerial bombardment.

The Ethiopian government reported many casualties, including women and children, in the bombing of the three towns, situated along a 40-mile front about 15 miles south of the Eritrean border.

Both Ethiopia and Italy notified the League of Nations of the Italian push, and Geneva also heard reports the Italians had begun a drive northward from Italian Somaliland, attacking the province of Ogaden, in southern Ethiopia.

Emperor Haile Selassie announced formal mobilization of his country, and prepared to resist the invasion.

The League of Nations council hastily called a meeting for 10:30 a. m. Saturday to consider the crises and possibly to rush steps toward application of sanctions.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A Central news dispatch from Addis Ababa today said casualties in the Italian air raid upon Adowa were at "officially" at 1,700 killed and wounded.

Addis Ababa was expecting an air attack at any minute. Foreigners were frightened less the natives would attack all whites as a result of such a bombardment.

By FLOYD GIBBONS

WITH ITALIAN GENERAL HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, Oct. 3—Italian troops invaded Ethiopia early before sunrise this morning.

By noon troops and native forces had crossed the Mareb river in four places.

The advance opened with a barrage of heavy cannonading from advance artillery positions.

Eight-inch long-range shells awoke the rocky walls of the mountain canyons north of Adowa and Adigrat.

Italian bombing planes flew high above both these thickly populated Abyssinian towns.

Led by Il Duce's Kin

Mussolini's own son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, personally led his flying squadron "In Desperate," composed of nine Caproni heavy bombers, on a mission of destruction north of Adowa and Adigrat.

The first field wireless messages passed from the invading troops reported no resistance at the crossing of the river.

Bombing from the air and heavy shells from long range guns are shattering the Abyssinian silence and throwing great pieces of mud and the like into the air.

Mussolini's two sons are each piloting a bomber of the squadron which now is on its mission in the emperor's hinterland.

Long columns of marching, black-shirted Fascisti troops cheered as the flying squadrons soared overhead in green, red, and white colors.

Italian troops from the general headquarters at Mareb at 7:00 a. m. Thursday successfully crossed the river Mareb 25,000 strong, and are well into Ethiopia.

Take Many Prisoners

An indeterminate number of prisoners was taken. No Italian casualties were reported.

More columns on foot and mounted are following the advancing troops in order to consolidate the gains made.

The infantry advance was covered in crossing the river by a

CITY DADS ACT ON BOILER JOB

In order to start work as soon as possible on installation of a new boiler at Memorial Hall, council Wednesday night passed an ordinance for $3,000, covering the entire estimated expense.

The ordinance, which appropriates the money to the public lands and buildings fund, was passed under suspension of rules. William M. Justus, service director, was ordered to prepare plans and specifications.

The county commissioners have agreed to pay half of the expense according to a report given by Councilman W. F. Baker.

Councilmen believed they should pass the ordinance for that amount and then ask the county to pay its share after the contract is awarded.

ITALIANS ADMIT WAR UNDER WAY

ROME, Oct. 3.—The Italian government today admitted its East African forces had invaded Ethiopia.

The Italian East African command has been instructed to occupy advanced positions outside the Italian lines, it was stated in an official communique.

The move was taken, the communique said, as a consequence of a "constant Ethiopian menace" to Italy's East African colonies.

Announcement followed by several hours dispatches from the Italian colonies themselves, Ethiopia, and Geneva revealing the long-planned, carefully-plotted Italo-Ethiopian war finally was on.

FORMER UTILITY EMPLOYEE IS DEAD

Funeral services were held in Hillsboro Thursday afternoon for Charles P. Wahn, former employee of the Ohio Utilities Co. of this city, who dropped dead early this week in that city.

Mr. Wahn left Circleville to become affiliated with the utility's Columbus office. He later was transferred to Hillsboro and while in that city severed his connections with the company. He was practicing as an attorney at the time of his demise.

ETHIOPIA CHARGES AGGRESSION; Reports Many Women, Children Killed

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—With stunning suddenness and on a gigantic scale, Italy today launched her Ethiopian drive, closing in on the African kingdom in two great pushes from Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

Dealing death to women and children as well as native troops, Italian artillery and airplanes opened bombardment in the north around Adowa and Adigrat, an official protest from the Ethiopian government informed the League of Nations.

Another fierce battle, in Ogaden province, adjoining Italian Somaliland, is reported in progress.

The cablegram sent by the Ethiopian war ministers said:

"Please communicate to the council of the league and the member states, the following:

"A telegram received October 3 from Ras Seyum, informs the imperial government that Italian military airplanes this morning bombed Adowa and Adigrat, leaving many victims among the civilian population, including women and children, and destroying numerous houses.

"A battle is at this moment taking place in the province of Agame.

"These events, occurring on Ethiopian territory, constitute a violation of the empire's frontier, and a breach of the covenant of the League, through Italian aggression."

Although not mentioning any battle, a note simultaneously received from Fulvio Suvich, Italian undersecretary, partially confirmed the Italian advance "to take up certain positions."

Congressman Approves Briggs and Crawford for New Holland, Orient Posts

New Holland and Orient post offices will have new masters in a short while as a result of Congressman Mell G. Underwood's action in sending the names of Cecil W. Briggs and James Crawford to Postmaster General James Farley's office.

Briggs will succeed Hary Davis at New Holland and Crawford will replace Kinsel Birkhead at Orient.

Both men who received the endorsement of the congressman were voted the support of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee.

As a result of his appointment it is believed that Briggs will be forced to resign as chairman of the county Democratic central committee.

The men will take their new offices as soon as the appointments have been confirmed by the U. S. senate.

CAMERAMAN HURT BY ETHIOPIAN MOB

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 3.—A news cameraman, a Capt. Ariel Vargas, was the first American casualty of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Capt. Vargas, employed by Hearst Metrotone newsreel and a photographer with a world reputation, was felled by Ethiopian tribesmen today as they made a mad rush for whites assembled on the palace steps to hear the emperor's mobilization proclamation.

Capt. Vargas suffered a seriously sprained knee. He was x-rayed and treated at the hospital, and then proceeded to continue his work against the advice of the physician who attended him.

CRAZED ST. PAUL MAN RUNS AMUCK

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 3.—A father who ran amuck in a rage of insanity today shot and killed two of his children, critically wounded his wife and another child, shot still another and then committed suicide.

Police also are looking for the body of a woman the father said he beat to death with a chair.

The dead are William Holler, 40, a bakery truck driver; and his daughters, Doris, 12, and June, 14. Mrs. Holler, 38, and a son, Duwain, 16, are dying and another son, Harris, 18, was slightly wounded.

TOM BRIDGES CARRIES HOPE OF DETROIT 9

Cochrane Sends Strong Right Hand to Box Against Charlie Root

WEATHER IS BAD

Rain, Hail Threaten to Cause Day's Delay

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, Oct. 3.—Although the weatherman threatened to force postponement of this afternoon's second game of the world's series, the game went on as scheduled after rain and hail fell almost until noon.

Both managers, Charlie Grimm for the Cubs and Mike Cochrane for the Tigers, stuck with their original pitching choices of Charlie Root and Tommy Bridges, righthanders.

Root has been experiencing his best season in recent years, while Bridges is one of the best money hurlers on the Detroit staff.

Lineup Unchanged

Neither manager made any changes in his starting lineup except in the box where Warneke and Rowe toiled Wednesday.

The Tigers were apparently not affected by the defeat at the hands of the Cubs ace. Awaiting Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis' ruling on the game, they sat around their dressing room playing cards and gossiping idly.

The team lost last year to the St. Louis Cardinals. It lost yesterday to the Chicago Cubs in the first game of the series and still it seemed wholly unimpressed by its apparent destiny.

Confident of Bridges

Besides, it felt that it was due to win today behind the pitching of Bridges, probably the most gallant if not the most rugged member of the Detroit staff.

This was one reason the gamblers quoted a short price for the rest of the series. They figured that the Tigers might start hitting against ordinary pitching and, once started, it would forget to stop. This was a dubious form of flattery but the best they, or anybody, could say for a team that expired with such pronounced apathy in the game.

EMBARGO LOOMS ON U. S. GOODS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Stunned by news that Italy's armed legions had finally been unleashed against Ethiopia, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today met in hurried conference with his aides to discuss what steps this government should take to keep the United States out of Europe's latest war.

Quick imposition of an embargo prohibiting the shipment of American arms and munitions to either Italy or Ethiopia loomed as the first step likely to be taken.

RISHKO GETS PRISON TERM

Young Hoodlum to Serve Nearly 14 Years in Philadelphia Penitentiary

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 3.—Nick Rishko, 17, Allentown, today began serving prison sentences of 13½ to 27 years for conviction of second degree murder in the hold-up slaying of James Rathburn, 60, local junkyard watchman.

Rishko was committed to the Eastern penitentiary in Philadelphia. He was apprehended in a stolen automobile at Circleville, O., last July, with two companions.

The court imposed a sentence of 10 to 20 years for the slaying, a sentence of one and one-half to three years for auto theft and two to four years on burglary charges, the sentences to run consecutively.

Dauenhauer is Now Legion Post Head

E. C. Ebert and William Betts, Jr. acted as installing and presiding officers, respectively, Wednesday evening, when Fred Dauenhauer became commander of Howard Hall post American Legion.

William Skinner was elected commander of Arch post No. 477 American Legion of New Holland at the annual meeting this week. Drive on Illicit Liquor Takes State Raider to Ashville

ONE IS WOMAN, 75

Hearings Set for Saturday by Adkins

Four Ashville residents, one a 75-year-old woman, were arrested by state and county authorities Wednesday afternoon following a series of liquor raids.

Those under arrest are: Dwight Swank, 40, Randolph-st.; Richard Sampson, 33, Long-st.; Ray Donaldson, 30, Randolph-st. all charged with illegal sale and Martha Rader, 75, Scioto-st. illegal possession.

Hearing Saturday

All were before Judge Joseph W. Adkins in common pleas court this morning, with the exception of Donaldson, denied the charges, and their hearings were set for Saturday morning.

The judge fixed bonds at $500 each. Sampson and Swank were returned to the county jail and Mrs. Rader was released without bond by Judge Adkins.

The officers reported Donaldson was unable to appear in court this morning because of an illness. Charges filed by State Officers H. B. McLaughlin and H. B. Hackett in common pleas court allege the purchases as follows: Swank, ½ pint for 30 cents on Sept. 8; Sampson, 1 pint for 60 cents on Sept. 25, and Donaldson, 1 pint for 60 cents on Sept. 28. Mrs. Rader is charged with possession of 20 quart bottles of home brew confiscated in the raid.

9 ORIENT YOUTHS ARE RE-CAPTURED

Only five of 14 inmates of the Orient institution for the feeble-minded remained free today after their escape Tuesday. Nine have been captured, most of them in fields in the vicinity of the institution. Two were caught in Columbus.

One of the youths was found walking nude in the CCC highway near Grove City by Hillsboro motorists. He was taken to Washington C. H., then back to Orient.

A report that the 14 escaped after slugging a guard was branded erroneous by institution officials today. One guard was slugged but not badly hurt while rounding up several of the fugitives, it was reported. The youths slipped away while breakfast was being prepared.

Local officials were not notified of the escape.

HAECKER TO HEAD SENIOR CLASSMEN

Hilaire Haecker, son of Mrs. Cora Haecker, today was elected president of the high school senior class. Other officers chosen were: vice president, John Griffith; secretary, Ann Vlerbome; treasurer, Jane Drum.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHT BOUGHT

Mayor Leads Delegation Asking Light at Eastend Intersection

Mayor W. B. Cady and a delegation of eastend citizens won their battle before council last night for a traffic light at Route 22 and 56.

City dads voted to purchase a light from T. A. Boor, Ashville inventor, after a 10-day trial, for an advertising price of $167.

Mayor Cady explained to councilmen three accidents had occurred at the intersection in 12 days. Two local residents narrowly escaped death in one collision.

Recommendations were made to move the lights from Court and Franklin, Court and Mound and Mound and Scioto-sts. to the east end. All light transfer suggestions brought protests.

Council had two adjournments to figure out the situation. During one adjournment they inspected a light Mr. Boor had in operation in police court. During the second they discussed the price of the light.

The light will be installed immediately. It is the same type of light used at the intersection of Court and High-sts. An indicator back of the lens shows motorists the time between changes.

Gas Ordinance Given Its Second Reading

In addition to the gas controversy, council Wednesday night took action on a resolution involving the light and water companies.

The resolutions, presented on a torn piece of yellow paper by Councilman W. M. Reid, and approved by all members, follows:

"Resolved that it is the opinion of members of council that the city of Circleville should own its own light and water works, and that it get in touch with companies willing to furnish funds for construction of said municipal improvement."

Paid From Income

The action was taken by council following information from companies who finance such projects, who build or purchase the plant, and take revenue bonds. These bonds are paid off by the income derived from the operation of the plants.

The projects had been considered by council for about two years, but the first step ever taken was the adoption of this resolution.

Two councilmen, who have been boosters of the move are Ben Gordon and W. M. Reid.

Road Gas Ordinance

On recommendation of Councilman Julius Helwagen, chairman of the special committee of council on the gas controversy, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. rate ordinance was given a second reading.

The ordinance goes back to the committee for further consideration.

H. M. Jay, district manager for the company, thanked council for its action and said in view of rising prices he considered the move was wise in approving a five year rate structure giving a savings to many consumers.

Although councilmen made no statements last night concerning the ordinance, it is reported amendments will be made before the ordinance is given a final vote.

Hearing Saturday

All were before Judge Joseph W. Adkins in common pleas court this morning, with the exception of Donaldson, denied the charges, and their hearings were set for Saturday morning.

The judge fixed bonds at $500 each. Sampson and Swank were returned to the county jail and Mrs. Rader was released without bond by Judge Adkins.

The officers reported Donaldson was unable to appear in court this morning because of an illness. Charges filed by State Officers H. B. McLaughlin and H. B. Hackett in common pleas court allege the purchases as follows: Swank, ½ pint for 30 cents on Sept. 8; Sampson, 1 pint for 60 cents on Sept. 25, and Donaldson, 1 pint for 60 cents on Sept. 28. Mrs. Rader is charged with possession of 20 quart bottles of home brew confiscated in the raid.

9 ORIENT YOUTHS ARE RE-CAPTURED

Only five of 14 inmates of the Orient institution for the feeble-minded remained free today after their escape Tuesday. Nine have been captured, most of them in fields in the vicinity of the institution. Two were caught in Columbus.

One of the youths was found walking nude in the CCC highway near Grove City by Hillsboro motorists. He was taken to Washington C. H., then back to Orient.

A report that the 14 escaped after slugging a guard was branded erroneous by institution officials today. One guard was slugged but not badly hurt while rounding up several of the fugitives, it was reported. The youths slipped away while breakfast was being prepared.

Local officials were not notified of the escape.

HAECKER TO HEAD SENIOR CLASSMEN

Hilaire Haecker, son of Mrs. Cora Haecker, today was elected president of the high school senior class. Other officers chosen were: vice president, John Griffith; secretary, Ann Vlerobome; treasurer, Jane Drum.

The junior class named Don Henry, athletic star, as president; Jessie Dresbach as vice president, Mary Crites as secretary, and Charlotte Cook, treasurer.

Seven on Raids

Six state officers and Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell took part in the raids Wednesday afternoon and ordered those arrested to appear in court today.

His Bullet Credited

Sergeant O'Neil

New information supplied by Mrs. Anna Sage, "woman in red" who put John Dillinger on the spot, names Sergeant Timothy A. O'Neil as the man whose bullet ended the career of the former public enemy. Sergeant O'Neil, one of the party of police and G-men who trapped the desperado in Chicago, is pictured above.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHT BOUGHT

Mayor Leads Delegation Asking Light at Eastend Intersection

Mayor W. B. Cady and a delegation of eastend citizens won their battle before council last night for a traffic light at Route 22 and 58.

City dads voted to purchase a light from T. A. Boor, Ashville inventor, after a 10-day trial, for an advertising price of $167.

Mayor Cady explained to councilmen three accidents had occurred at the intersection in 12 days. Two local residents narrowly escaped death in one collision.

Recommendations were made to move the lights from Court and Franklin, Court and Mound and Mound and Scioto-sts, to the east end. All light transfer suggestions brought protests.

Council had two adjournments to figure out the situation. During one adjournment they inspected a light Mr. Boor had in operation in police court. During the second they discussed the price of the light.

The light will be installed immediately. It is the same type of light used at the intersection of Court and High-sts. An indicator back of the lens shows motorists the time between changes.

TWO MEN FINED ON DRIVING CHARGES

Earl R. Hoffman, Ashville Rt. 2, and Leroy Hanks, Chillicothe, paid fines of $25 and costs, $15 suspended, to H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, Wednesday evening. Hoffman was fined for using fictitious tags and Hanks for reckless operation. The charge against Hoffman was filed by Deputy Miller Fissell. F. Raquet, state patrolman, filed the charge against Hanks.

CITY TO SPEND $300 FOR SPECIAL POLICE

A fund of $300 was set up by council last night for the employment of special police for Pumpkin show. Council appropriated the amount to the safety fund in an ordinance passed under suspension of rules. Twenty-eight policemen will be employed during the celebration.

COUNCIL ACTS TO GET FUNDS FOR PROJECTS

Adopts Resolution to Contact Firms About Electric, Water Plants

Gas Ordinance Given Its Second Reading

In addition to the gas controversy, council Wednesday night took action on a resolution involving the light and water companies.

The resolutions, presented on a torn piece of yellow paper by Councilman W. M. Reid, and approved by all members, follows:

"Resolved that it is the opinion of members of council that the city of Circleville should own its own light and water works, and that it get in touch with companies willing to furnish funds for construction of said municipal improvement."

Paid From Income

The action was taken by council following information from companies who finance such projects, who build or purchase the plants and take revenue bonds. These bonds are paid off by the income derived from the operation of the plants.

The projects had been considered by council for about two years but the first step ever taken was the adoption of this resolution.

Two councilmen, who have been boosters of the move are Ben Gordon and W. M. Reid.

Read Gas Ordinance

On recommendation of Councilman Julius Helweggen, chairman of the special committee of council on the gas controversy, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. rate ordinance was given a second reading.

The ordinance goes back to the committee for further consideration.

H. M. Jay, district manager for the company, thanked council for its action and said in view of rising prices he considered the men were wise in approving a five year rate structure giving a savings to many consumers.

Although councilmen made no statements last night concerning the ordinance, it is reported amendments will be made before the ordinance is given a final vote.

Editor's Guess on War One Day Wrong

Don't wager with Glen Geib, editor of The Herald, on the Italo-Ethiopian war or the World series. Last spring as war clouds were gathering over Europe, he leafed an N. & W. calendar in the office and at random picked Oct. 4 as the date war would start. With nonchalance he drew a circle around the date—just for fun.

Today official news was received the war was underway. His guess was only one day off—not much on an international problem.

As to his opinions on the World series, ask any employee of The Herald for their sob story.

RECRUITS FOR NAVY ARE SOUGHT IN CITY

P. E. Tye, chief quartermaster, Navy Recruiting station at Columbus, was in Circleville Wednesday seeking prospective recruits.

Tye stated the waiting list has been practically exhausted and those qualifying will be enlisted within two months. Formerly men had to wait from six weeks to six months.

Applicants must be unmarried, have no dependents, be between 17 and 25 years of age, and qualify physically, mentally and morally.

75 Attend Group Meeting of W. H. M. S. in M. E. Church

About seventy-five delegates from groups three and four in the Chillicothe district of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church gathered at the local church Wednesday for an all-day session.

The weather was ideal for such a gathering and a splendid meeting was conducted.

Mrs. H. A. Rotherock of Nelsonville, district president, presided and opened the morning session with a brief devotional period.

Mrs. Allyn Rathmell of Lockbourne presented the study course for this year "Pioneering for Christian America," especially stressing the theme of pioneering today in Home Missions. She closed with the quotation "Blessed are they that have eyes and see, and hands to work, withal to do the work and not presume to fret because it is little."

Mrs. H. J. Holcombe of Greenville, Ohio Conference corresponding secretary, was introduced and spoke on "A Look at Our Membership." She said "A tree never dies as long as fresh sap rises to the top" thus illustrating the necessity for groups of Queen Esther and Young People, new membership absolutely vital to the success of Home Missions. She outlined several methods of securing new members and urged each auxiliary to put on a good will campaign.

An open forum was held on "The Most Difficult Problem of Your Auxiliary" which brought forth considerable discussion and exchange of methods.

Special music for the morning session was given by Mrs. Leon Van Vleet, who played two piano numbers, "Hope" by Goerdeler and "Nocturne" by Gales.

The afternoon session was given over mainly to the discussion of Queen Esther and Young People's work.

Three tables of bridge were in progress at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Denning, W. Franklin-st., Wednesday evening, when they were hosts to members of their club and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Geib.

Mrs. Frank Kline Jr. and Harold Eveland were winners of top score favors.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cromley of Ashville will entertain the club at its next meeting.

LOCAL GIRL HELPS PLAN COLLEGE SOCIAL SEASON

Miss Virginia Caskey, N. Court-st., a student at Capital university, Columbus, is one of the seven freshmen chosen this week by the class to serve on the social committee.

The first social function of the year will be staged this month it was decided by the group at its meeting Tuesday night.

Others on the social committee include Earl Miller, Detroit; Paul Sealing, Holland, Ind.; Miss Virginia Taylor, Hebron, and Gerald Richards and Miss Mary Pile, Detroit, and Robert Free of Piqua.

work. Mrs. Fagley of Chillicothe speaking on "A Look Ahead at Youth and Girl's Golden Year."

The Queen Esther groups of the Home Missionary society have taken as their three year goal the establishment of the Freeman clinic at El Paso, Texas, building a girl's dormitory at Bennett Academy, Mathiston, Miss., and a gymnasium at the Settlement house in East St. Louis.

Mrs. Roy Higgins used as her subject, "A Look at Your Second Chance" outlining the projects for young people's work.

The Lockbourne auxiliary presented an extremely clever play-let, "Soap, Sand and Sagebrush."

Mrs. H. J. Holcombe in her afternoon address presented various phases of the work on the mission field, telling of the Jessie Lee Home in Alaska, of the day old triplets taken to the Ethel Harpst Home at Cedarhurst, Ga.

Incidentally the auxiliaries of the Ohio conference are asked this year to clothe the 100 children in the Ethel Harpst Home.

Also at the afternoon meeting Mrs. James P. Moffitt sang two numbers, "Bless This House" and "I Come to Thee."

Mrs. Rotherock announced the conference meeting to be held in Columbus Nov. 7 and 8 and urged as many as possible to attend.

Several members of the Pickaway-co Garden club are planning to attend the fifth annual convention of the Ohio Association of Garden clubs to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 8 and 9, in the Columbus Art Gallery.

Mrs. Ella Hornbeck and Mrs. J. P. Moffitt are delegates from the local club and Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. Mack Noggle and Mrs. Leslie Pontius are alternates. The Seneca hotel will be headquarters for the delegates.

The convention will open Tuesday morning with a meeting of regional directors and presidents from 10:30 to 12 o'clock. Mrs. Silas B. Waters of Cincinnati, president of the association, will give her annual message at 1:30 p. m. and beginning at 1:45 p. m. the following will give talks:

Dr. J. H. Gourley, department of Horticulture, Ohio State university, on "How Plants Grow;" Lawrence E. Hicks of Ohio State university illustrative talk on "Conservation of Wild Life;" Mrs. Frank Stearns, Cleveland, "What the Garden Club of Ohio is Doing;" and Ralph Fanning, Department of Fine Arts, Ohio State university, "Still Life Pictures."

Reports of regional directors; inspection of flower show and exhibits; slides of members' gardens, and an illustrative lecture, "Sights and Insights for Garden Lovers" by E. L. Taylor of Cincinnati complete the program for the afternoon and evening sessions on Tuesday.

On Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. reports of state chairmen will be heard after which Mrs. Sidney Crews of Cincinnati will give an illustrated talk on "Japanese Flower Arrangement."

The annual meeting will be held from 11 a. m. to 12 noon at which time there will be a luncheon meeting. The convention will conclude with a garden tour of Grandview and Arlington gardens arranged by the Columbus Landscape association.

The garden tour will be free to those registered for the convention and those who are not will be charged a fee of twenty-five cents.

75 Attend Group Meeting of W. H. M. S. in M. E. Church

About seventy-five delegates from groups three and four in the Chillicothe district of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church gathered at the local church Wednesday for an all-day session. The weather was ideal for such a gathering and a splendid meeting was conducted.

Mrs. H. A. Rotherock of Nelsonville, district president, presided and opened the morning session with a brief devotional period.

Mrs. Allyn Rathmell of Lockbourne presented the study course for this year "Pioneering for Christian America," especially stressing the theme of pioneering today in Home Missions. She closed with the quotation "Blessed are they that have eyes and see, and hands to work, withal to do the work and not presume to fret because it is little."

Mrs. H. J. Holcombe of Greenville, Ohio Conference corresponding secretary, was introduced and spoke on "A Look at Our Membership." She said "a tree never dies as long as fresh sap rises to the top" thus illustrating the necessity for groups of Queen Esther and Young People, new membership absolutely vital to the success of Home Missions. She outlined several methods of securing new members and urged each auxiliary to put on a good will campaign.

An open forum was held on "The Most Difficult Problem of Your Auxiliary" which brought forth considerable discussion and exchange of methods. Special music for the morning session was given by Mrs. Leon Van Vleet, who played two piano numbers, "Hope" by Goederer and "Nocturne" by Gals.

The afternoon session was given over mainly to the discussion of Queen Esther and Young People's work. Mrs. Fagley of Chillicothe speaking on "A Look Ahead at Youth and Girl's Golden Year."

The Queen Esther groups of the Home Missionary society have taken as their three year goal the establishment of the Freeman clinic at El Paso, Texas, building a girl's dormitory at Bennett Academy, Mathiston, Miss., and a gymnasium at the Settlement house in East St. Louis.

Mrs. Roy Higgins used as her subject, "A Look at Your Second Chance" outlining the projects for young people's work.

The Lockbourne auxiliary presented an extremely clever play-let, "Soap, Sand and Sagebrush."

Mrs. H. J. Holcombe in her afternoon address presented various phases of the work on the mission field, telling of the Jesse Lee Home in Alaska, of the day old triplets taken to the Ethel Harpist Home at Cedartown, Ga. Incidentally the auxiliaries of the Ohio conference are asked this year to clothe the 100 children in the Ethel Harpist Home.

Also at the afternoon meeting Mrs. James P. Moffitt sang two numbers, "Bless This House" and "I Come to Thee."

Mrs. Rotherock announced the conference meeting to be held in Columbus Nov. 7 and 8 and urged as many as possible to attend.

Wounded by Lion

Charles Bickford

Charles Bickford, screen actor, was mauled and chewed by a lion, on the studio lot and rushed to a Hollywood hospital in serious condition. The lion working in a scene with the actor suddenly leaped at Bickford's throat. The animal could not be beaten off in time to prevent serious injury to Bickford.

NEW IDEA IN EDUCATION

OUT in Chicago Mr. William Bogan, the superintendent of schools, has proposed radical changes in the high school courses of that city to provide "education for the crowd," the pupils who are not headed for college. It is his view that for more than 80 per cent of the pupils the courses are now cluttered with non-essentials which waste their time, largely because of the traditional view of the high school as a preparatory school for college. Some of the changes Mr. Bogan has in mind are:

"Less foreign language and more science useful to the layman.

"Less algebra and Latin and more training in elementary economics and citizenships.

"In English, less written composition and more training in oral expression.

"More physical education, more handicraft, more drawing of mechanical type, but no facts or foibles."

For those who want them the standard courses required for college admission are to be retained, but for more than 80 per cent of the pupils a type of education will be developed that will have cultural objectives and also be adapted to everyday activities in this scientific, streamlined, mechanized, airplane age.

It is the old controversy of practical learning vs. the study of arts and sciences which may be of no specific practical value. Mr. Bogan has contributed the added point to the argument that a little learning, if not a dangerous thing at least is valueless. To us it would still seem, however, that one learns for the sake of learning and not for whatever assistance it may be in the subsequent earning of a dollar.

Marriage: The ceremony that authorizes a woman to take a man and remodel him.

The two most potent agencies to bind people together are love and a familiar affliction.

The successful criminal isn't made in a day. It takes years just to train a lawyer for him.

The average man lives one-third of his life without sin. He spends that much of his life sleeping.

But, think how wild the country would be if every woman cheated by matrimony got drunk to forget it.

The great fault of the white race is that it quits exterminating savages when none are left but white ones.

The reason the bridegroom hates a church wedding is because he doesn't like to be forgotten for three weeks.

Vested right: Any privilege or graft to which we have grown accustomed.

Eliminating grade crossings will provide jobs, but think of the coffin makers thrown out of work.

VULNERABILITY AFFECTS BIDDING

THE MAJORITY of players find the feature of vulnerability one of the most trying to handle properly in bidding. It very properly renders the use of psychic bidding very dangerous, but experience has caused the decrease of such bids even when not vulnerable. Being vulnerable never need cause a player to pass a perfectly sound opening call, nor affect partner's sound shifts or assists. The two great influences being vulnerable has upon bidding is to cause opponents to double when they can collect more from penalties than from further bidding, and to slow down making weak over calls when vulnerable.

Today's hand illustrates how the vulnerability of both sides should affect the auction. The hand was dealt in a duplicate game of several tables, played at the Shepard club, Portland, Me.

North dealt, with both sides vulnerable. At two tables the bidding went: East, 1-Heart, the soundness of which cannot be questioned, with 2-Diamonds; West, doubled. Whether or not to leave the double in was a fairly close question, but West should have bid 2-No Trumps, rather than doubling, unless he expected much greater revenue from the latter call. Both East players allowed the double to stand, lying for top score, with South down 3 tricks, costing 500 points. East and West could have scored only 430 points for bidding 2-No Trumps, over the 2-Diamonds.

Had South more carefully considered the matter it is probable that he would not have overcalled the opening bid of 1-Heart. In the first place, his partner had declined to open the bidding. In the next place, South probably could win 4 tricks against a heart make, one trick in each suit, and both sides were vulnerable.

Evidently the caliber of opponents played an important role in determining whether or not South should bid 2-Diamonds. At one table East and West refused to go beyond 2-No Trumps, over the 2-Diamonds. At another table East and West ventured to bid 3-No Trumps, and made 4-odd. Knowing both partner and opponents intimately, and what each may be expected to venture, is a vital factor in determining what you may risk and when. Perfect understanding between partners is vital to success. So is understanding opponents' methods. Of equal importance is the psychology of the game—the battle of wits, not of cards.

The Romance Racket

READ THIS FIRST:

Fun, parties, pretty clothes and beauty are things unattractive to Carol Kennedy had never desired until she looked into the eyes of Dr. Owen Craig, fiancé of her cousin, Kathy Prentice. Kathy is marrying Owen for his social prestige alone. When Carol, an orphan, comes into a vast fortune, she suddenly decides to leave her old home in Connecticut and seek freedom and happiness in New York. Isabel Ironson, an old school chum, takes Carol to her first cocktail party where she meets Gary Crandall, playboy, who agrees to show her how to become a fascinating woman. She emerges from a beauty shop a changed girl and, with proper clothes, finds herself a most attractive person. Isabel helps her find an apartment and Gary finds her a job, knowing nothing of her wealth. At a party she meets Manfred Morris, theatrical producer. When her other job fails to materialize, Carol is persuaded by Isabel to call on Morris. Morris sees possibilities in Carol as an actress and sends her to the theatre where she meets a girl who is in rehearsal. Carol learns the chorus routine after much hard work, she shows opens and proves a hit. She works up to the second lead and learns that Morris is waiting in her dressing room after her first performance in the new role.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 16

FLUSHED WITH compliments of her fellow actors, "props," old Pop Keelin and the enthusiastic reception of Buelah, her maid, Carol opened the door of her dressing room to find Manfred Morris waiting for her.

"Was it all right?" she asked. "It was my first meeting with him since that day two months ago when he had sent her for the job yet she could think of only these words to say."

"Very nice." That was all. He lit the eternal cigar and sat down. "Like the theater any better?"

"I'm very excited," she said. "I suppose now you'll engage a real actress to take over this role?"

"No," he said with an infection. "We'll give you a few dramatic lessons and see if we can't make a real actress out of you."

"That's very kind of you," was all she could manage to say. She felt that she should have said much more but nothing more occurred to her. "Well," he picked up his hat and waited but when Carol said nothing. "Goodnight. Keep up the good work. By the way, the flowers are for you."

"Thank you, Mr. Morris," she said. "Thank you for all you've done for me. I appreciate it from the bottom of my heart."

"Do you? We shall see!" He left then.

"Now that you're practically a star," Isabel told her on the phone a few days later, "surely you're not going to high-tail your old friend's legs and leave me here alone. Let's have a long tea and talk over this afternoon. We'll go over to Irving House and watch the boys and talk until time for you to go to the theater."

Carol was supposed to pose for some fashion pictures that afternoon. Kaufman, her dramatic coach, was expecting her at four. She wanted to buy some wool to knit a bathing suit. She wanted... oh she wanted to do lots of things but when she talked to Isabel, she realized that more than anything she wanted to get as far away from Broadway as she possibly could. She wanted to talk to Isabel about college and green lawns and she wanted teacups instead of cocktail glasses.

It was an early July afternoon, hot and sultry. Carol's cool-looking green sheer frock clung to her body. "Why don't you take a cruise, Isabel?" she asked. "Now that you've closed the office."

"I will if you'll go with me, darling."

"You know I can't do that. Mr. Morris has been so wonderful about it all. I can't walk out now. I'll later, perhaps. The show is closing in August and is going on the road in the fall."

"Are you really crazy about him?" Isabel asked.

Carol thought a long while before she answered.

"But you are having a good time. I don't have that all-consuming love of the theater I've read about at all. The scents and sounds, the whole atmosphere do not fill me up the way it seems to affect the other girls I've met but yet... oh, I guess I like the excitement."

"Not particularly," Carol twirled the mint in her iced tea. "But I am busy and I've met dozens of people. For the first time in my life I'm invited out to parties. But parties aren't at all as I thought they would Binnie Barnes, an English beauty with red gold hair and creamy skin, once headed for Hollywood with a contract that took effect when she touched American soil.

The screen career of the beautiful Binnie has progressed nicely on her native soil. She is seen playing the role of Kathryn Howard opposite Charles Laughlin in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," a United Artists release showing tonight only at the Circle Theatre. It was Kathryn Howard, you remember, who became the fifth wife of the king and who lost her head for her infidelity.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Palais Royale is the stage attraction announced for Friday and Saturday at the Cliftona Theatre. Jack G. Van naively adds that while the spectacle is founded on the lines that have made the revues of the Folies Bergere and Moulin Rouge famous—or notorious, the audible portions of this opus will be done in good old-fashioned Circleville English.

Curvilinear contours abound. The company is numerous as well as talented and abounding with beauty. Outstanding among the performers, to mention a few, are Guy Johnson, the southern black dot, Frazier and Frazier, hand balancers par excellence, The LaFons, direct from South American Capitols, Miller and Miller novelty musical and roping duo, assisted by their wonder dancing dog "Boy." Morgan Sisters, Rhythmic Stylists, Ben LaVarne, torch singer, Carl Fischer and his Palais Royale Orchestra and of course the indispensable Palais Royale feminine finery.

AT THE GRAND

Tender love scenes, brilliant dialogue, subtle comedy, rapid fire action and superb acting combine to make Sally Eiler's newest starring Universal film, "Alias Mary Dow," which opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre, one of the brightest dramas of the year.

Supporting Miss Eiler in the film are Ray Milland, Henry O'Neill, Clarence Muse, Katharine Alexander, lovable Baby Jane clever three-and-one-half-year-old starlet; Lola Lane and Chick Chandler. The fine screen play and witty dialogue were written by Gladys Unger, Rose Franken and Arthur Caesar.

"WHERE DID Salisbury steak get its name?" inquires a correspondent.

The origin was from a popular cure of 40 years ago, as set forth in a book called "The Relation of Alimentation and Disease," published in New York by Salisbury in 1895. The diet recommended consisted of lean meat and hot water only. It was practically a exclusively protein diet, for although there is always a certain proportion of fat even in lean meat, for practical purposes the amount is negligible.

It was recommended in the treatment of gout and certain diseases of the skin, particularly dyspepsia. Curiously enough, a very modern physician, Dr. Folin, believes that the proper treatment of gout is with a high protein diet, entirely contradictory to the usual advice.

Minced Beef Diet Basis

The Salisbury treatment was carried out as follows:

"The basis of the diet is thoroughly cooked minced lean beef (so prepared that all gristle and the greater part of the connective tissue are removed) and hot water. (Minced mutton or chicken may be substituted occasionally for variety, but bulk for bulk, neither is so nourishing as the beef.)

"The minced beef is given three times a day, with a five-hourly interval between each meal. The best hours for meals are 8:30 a. m., 1:20 p. m., and 6:50 p. m. In any case the last meal should not be later than 7 p. m."

"The hot water is given four times a day, one and a half to one and three quarters hours before each meal, and a half hour after the last meal. The water should be SIPPED SLOWLY at a temperature of about 120 degrees F.—roughly that at which tea or coffee is usually taken. The quality of the water is an important factor, and if at all hard distilled water must be used."

"The quantity of meat at each meal varies from two ounces upward, the quantity of each portion of hot water being a pint, or less, according to the nature of the individual case."

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Dr. "Would the use of acetylsalicylic acid to relieve pain, taken daily over a period of six months, be harmful? Is it habit forming?"

Answer: Acetylsalicylic acid is phenacetin. Like acetaminophen, to which it is related chemically, it may be depressant in large doses taken over a long period of time. But this action is much less likely than in the case of acetaminophen, because the decomposition products such as para-aminophenol, which cause the effects, is formed far more slowly than in the case of acetaminophen. It is not truly habit forming.

Eastern GOP Leaders Spring Surprise Plan For "National" Ticket

WASHINGTON—An unrecorded sensation was sprung behind the closed doors of the Republican Executive Committee last week. Those who dropped the bombshell were a group of eastern party leaders—chiefly National Committeemen Charles D. Hiles, of New York; J. Henry Roraback, of Connecticut; and Daniel E. Pomeroy, of New Jersey.

What they propose was a coup similar to that of the present National Government in Great Britain when it swept the Labor Party out of office in 1931. The GOP would select a "National" ticket, with a Republican as the standard bearer and a prominent Democrat as his running mate.

But this is not all. To give the slate a real National flavor, GOP strategists proposed writing a specific pledge into the ticket's platform for a National Cabinet made up of both Republicans and Democrats.

The proposal was excitedly discussed by Executive Committee members, and although no formal vote was taken, an informal poll revealed thirteen of the nineteen members present to be enthusiastically for it.

A lot more will be heard of the plan. Its backers are pushing it vigorously. Their latest move was to dispatch a confidential letter to a number of key State and local GOP leaders strongly recommending the maneuver and asking their support.

Trying Circumstances

On the surface all was harmony at the meeting of the water power moguls with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

But underneath there was an atmosphere of tension among the utility executives. Obviously they were still nursing wounds from their battle to kill the Holding Company Act.

Before the deliberations began, the power men sat for a photograph with members of the Commission. Noting a dour expression on the visitors' faces, one of the cameramen asked them to "please look a little more pleasant."

To which Sam W. Murphy, of Electric Bond & Share, retorted sadly:

"We'll do the best we can—under the circumstances."

Poems That Live

THE HAPPIEST HEART

Who drives the horses of the sun
Shall lord it but a day;
Better the lowly deed were done,
And kept the humble way.

The rust will find the sword of fame,
The dust will hide the crown;
Ay, none shall nail so high his name
Time will not tear it down.

The happiest heart that ever beat
Was in some quiet breast
That found the common daylight sweet,
And left to Heaven the rest.

Relief Workers' School

When Hilda Smith was Dean of Women at Bryn Mawr College, listening to the tribulations of young girls, she thought she had a problem on her hands. But now she has traded that for the immense job of teaching 1200 teachers how to teach 50,000 workers.

Dr. Smith is a mild mannered woman of fifty with greying hair and soft, kindly blue eyes. Sometimes she is called Harry Hopkins's "Professor of Communism."

"We don't teach Communism," she says, with a faint smile. "But we allow discussion of it—provided the other side is presented as well."

Her job is to take teachers off Relief rolls to teach workers who are on Relief rolls. They call it the program of Workers' Education, now two years old.

Some cities don't like the idea of having workers discuss political and economic questions. But Hilda Smith's staff ignores this. They have the 100 per cent backing of Harry Hopkins.

In one Southern town, permission to use the local school house was denied. So the FERA teacher got his workers together, piled them, plus a blackboard, into his car, and drove out into the woods. Here he hung the blackboard on the car and lectured to a class sitting on tree stumps.

The big problem, however, is not finding a class room, but keeping the class in it. The pupils in this case are adults, and if they don't like school, they walk out.

Real Hero

The real hero of the coal strike settlement was Edward F. McGrady.

The hard-working Assistant Secretary of Labor, acting as the President's mediator, got all the bricks and none of the credit. The operators, particularly, were sore at him.

What riled them most was McGrady's statement to the press that the strike occurred only because the operators had held out on a difference of 1½ cents a ton in the proposed increase in pay for loaders. Adding further fuel to their anger was McGrady's plain-talking criticism of their tactics.

Just before the deadline for the strike call, McGrady went after the operators hammer and tongs.

"You can't win this strike," he barked. "And I'll tell you why. There was a time when, if miners quit work and their credit was cut off in your company stores, they and their wives and children faced starvation. After a few weeks the miners' morale was broken and they went back to the diggings."

"But that won't happen this time. Every man, woman and child will be fed by the Government. Those old strike-breaking methods won't work."

NOTE—McGrady was making no idle threat. Harry Hopkins secretly had promised that the FERA would supply food and other necessities in the event of a protracted strike.

NEW IDEA IN EDUCATION

OUT in Chicago Mr. William Bogan, the superintendent of schools, has proposed radical changes in the high school courses of that city to provide "education for the crowd," the pupils who are not headed for college. It is his view that for more than 80 per cent of the pupils the courses are now cluttered with non-essentials which waste their time, largely because of the traditional view of the high school as a preparatory school for college. Some of the changes Mr. Bogan has in mind are:

"Less foreign language and more science useful to the layman.
"Less algebra and Latin and more training in elementary economics and citizenships.
"In English, less written composition and more training in oral expression.

"More physical education, more handicraft, more drawing of mechanical type, but no fads or foibles."

For those who want them the standard courses required for college admission are to be retained, but for more than 80 per cent of the pupils a type of education will be developed that will have cultural objectives and also be adapted to everyday activities in this scientific, streamlined, mechanized, airplane age.

It is the old controversy of practical learning vs. the study of arts and sciences which may be of no specific practical value. Mr. Bogan has contributed the added point to the argument that a little learning, if not a dangerous thing at least is valueless. To us it would still seem, however, that one learns for the sake of learning and not for whatever assistance it may be in the subsequent earning of a dollar.

VULNERABILITY AFFECTS

BIDDING

THE MAJORITY of players find the feature of vulnerability one of the most trying to handle properly in bidding. It very properly renders the use of psychic bidding very dangerous, but experience has caused the decrease of such bids even when not vulnerable. Being vulnerable never need cause a player to pass a perfectly sound opening call, nor affect partner's sound shifts or assists. The two great influences being vulnerable has upon bidding is to cause opponents to double when they can collect more from penalties than from further bidding, and to slow down making weak over calls when vulnerable. Today's hand illustrates how the vulnerability of both sides should affect the auction. The hand was dealt in a duplicate game of several tables, played at the Shepard club, Portland, Me.

North dealt, with both sides vulnerable. At two tables the bidding went: East, 1-Heart, the soundness of which cannot be questioned, with two major suits biddable; South, 2-Diamonds; West, doubled. Whether or not to leave the double in was a fairly close question, but West should have bid 2-No Trumps, rather than doubling, unless he expected much greater revenue from the latter call. Both East players allowed the double to stand, trying for top score, with South down 3 tricks, costing 800 points. East and West could have scored only 630 points for bidding game at no trumps and scoring 4-odd. Had South more carefully considered the matter it is probable that he would not have overcalled the opening bid of 1-Heart. In the first place, his partner had declined to open the bidding. In the next place, South probably could win 4 tricks against a heart make, one trick in each suit, and both sides were vulnerable. Evidently the caliber of opponents played an important role in determining whether or not South should bid 2-Diamonds. At one table East and West refused to go beyond 2-No Trumps, over the 2-Diamonds. At another table East and West ventured to bid 3-No Trumps, and made 4-odd. Knowing both partner and opponents intimately, and what each may be expected to venture, is a vital factor in determining what you may risk and when. Perfect understanding between partners is vital to success. So is understanding opponents' methods. Of equal importance is the psychology of the game—the battle of wits, not of cards.

The Romance Racket

MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

"Fun, parties, pretty clothes and deauz are things unattractive Carol Kennedy had never desired until she looked into the eyes of Dr. Owen Craig, fiancé of her cousin, Kathy Prentice. Kathy is marrying Owen for his social prestige alone. When Carol, an orphan, comes into a vast fortune, she suddenly decides to leave her old home in Connecticut and seek freedom and happiness in New York. Isabel Bronson, an old school chum, takes Carol to her first cocktail party where she meets Gary Randall, playboy, who agrees to show her how to become a fascinating woman. She emerges from a beauty shop a changed girl and, with proper clothes, finds herself a most attractive person. Isabel helps her find an apartment and Gary finds her a job, knowing nothing of her wealth. At a party she meets Manfred Morris, theatrical producer. When her other job fails to materialize, Carol is persuaded by Isabel to call on Morris. Morris sees possibilities in Carol as an actress and sends her to the theater where his new musical show is in rehearsal. Carol learns the chorus routine after much hard work, the show opens and proves a hit. She works up to the second lead and learns that Morris is waiting in her dressing room after her first performance in the new role.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 16

FLUSHED with compliments of her fellow actors, "props," old Pop Keelin and the enthusiastic reception of Bluehai, her maid, Carol opened the door of her dressing room to find Manfred Morris waiting for her.

"Was it . . . was it all right?" she asked. This was her first meeting with him since that day two months ago when he had sent her for the job yet she could think of only these words to say.

"Very nice." That was all. He lit the eternal cigar and sat down. "Like the theater any better?"

"It's very exciting," she said. "I suppose now you'll engage a real actress to take over this role?"

"No," he said with an infection. "We'll give you a few dramatic lessons and see if we can't make a real actress out of you."

"That's very kind of you," was all she could manage to say. She felt that she should have said much more but nothing more occurred to her. "Well," he picked up his hat and waited but when Carol said nothing—"Goodnight. Keep up the good work. By the way, the flowers are for you."

"Thank you, Mr. Morris," she said, finally. "Thank you for all you've done for me. I mean to do it from the bottom of my heart."

"Do you? We shall see!" He left then. "Now that you're practically a star," Isabel told her on the phone a few days later, "surely you're not going to high-hat your old friends."

"I let's have a long tea and talk over to River House and watch the boats and talk until time for you to go to the theater."

Carol was supposed to pose for some fashion pictures that afternoon. Kaufman, her dramatic coach, was expecting her at four. She wanted to buy some wool to knit a bathing suit. She wanted . . . oh she wanted to do lots of things but when she talked to Isabel, she realized that more than anything she wanted to get as far away from Broadway as she possibly could. She wanted to talk to Isabel about college and green lawns and she wanted teacups instead of cocktail glasses.

It was an early July afternoon, hot and sultry. Carol's hair was looking green sheer frock clinging to her body.

"Why don't you take a cruise, Isabel?" she asked. "Now that you're closed the office."

"I will if you'll go with me, darling."

"You know I can't do that. Mr. Morris has been so wonderful about it all. I can't walk out on him. But later, perhaps. The show is closing in August and is going on the road in the fall."

"Are you really crazy about it?" Isabel asked.

Carol thought a long while before she answered.

"I don't know. I've tried to think it out. I don't have that all-consumming love of the theater I've read about at all. The scents and sounds the whole atmosphere do not fill me up the way it seems to affect the other girls I've met but yet . . . oh, I guess I like the excitement."

"But you are having a good time?"

"Not particularly," Carol twirled the mint in her fingers. "But I am busy and I've met dozens of people. For the first time in my life I'm invited out to parties. But parties aren't at all as I thought they would be. No one seems to know anyone else. The whole point seems to be to drink as much as possible and I never have more than one cocktail."

"No, I can see where that wouldn't mean anything to you. What about the men?"

"I don't like them either, Isabel, and I think the trouble must be with me. They seem to be possible and I can't help you with or can any number of people. You need someone to share your world with and then all this seeking will be over. Haven't you ever met anyone like that?"

"But it does matter terribly, my dear," Isabel crushed out her cigar. "Your chief trouble is loneliness and the kind of loneliness that I can't help you with or can any number of people. You need someone to share your world with and then all this seeking will be over. Haven't you ever met anyone like that?"

"No-o-o." Isabel knew from Carol's voice that there was someone but if the other girl didn't want to talk about it, Isabel would not force a confidence.

"How are you and Morris getting on? I hear you were at the Mayfair club with him one night."

Carol smiled. "Oh, he's sweet. I can't understand him. He does so much for me. You know he engaged Kaufman for me and he does any number of nice things."

"Any naughty ones?" Isabel asked with a half smile.

"Why, no. Why should he?" Carol asked innocently.

"Carol, when I talk to you, I feel like a wicked old woman but it's just about time someone taught you a few of the facts of life. Of course, I may be wrong but when a theatrical producer who has to duck the most beautiful women in the world who throw themselves at his feet, seeks out a girl who never saw a stage from the rear view, gives her dancing lessons so that she can make the chorus, elevates her to a second lead, pays a tutor to teach her that business, I think he has a card up his sleeve. Or maybe I'm wrong; maybe he's got religion or there is a Santa Claus or something, but from all I've heard, I don't think I am."

Carol flushed. "I can take care of myself, Isabel. Sometimes I've wondered about his interest myself but he never does anything that I could really . . . well . . ."

Isabel caught the infection on the word "really" and she guessed more than Carol had told her.

DIZZY WANTS BIG ANTE

The baseball season is ended, with the exception of the world's series, and the old chatter concerning next season has started. Dizzy "The Great" Dean is asking $27,500 from his Cardinal bosses, $7,500 more than offered—Ripper Collins is going to New York, say the rumors, from the Cards with Dolph Camilli moving to St. Louis from Philadelphia.

YAWKEY IN MARKET

Now comes a good one; Tom Yawkey, big money man for the Boston Red Sox, has offered $390,000 for Jimmy Foxx, Eric McNair and Roger Cramer of the Blackmen—Connie wants $400,000, it is said, and a compromise of $350,000 is seen probable.

CAVARETTA HERO, TOO

One of the outstanding heroes of the Cubs' first victory over the Tigers, in our estimation, was Phil Cavaretta, freshman first sacker. He went into the dirt several times to save infielders bad throws—Lon Warneke, of course, was the fair-haired boy—He tossed out eight runners and could have had another to break a series record.

BRIDGES SELECTED

Just for fun we're picking Detroit today because we believe Tom Bridges will be tougher in a series spot than will Charlie Root.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scant amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

TIGER MENTOR UNCERTAIN OF STARTING 11

Injuries Harassing Backfield Men; Grandview Brings Big, Fast Team

Coach Jack Landrum today was praying that injuries which some of his athletes have been favoring this week will not crop out in Friday's first Central Buckeye league game of the year with Grandview.

Several of the youths are on the "danger" line. John Griffith, who has petted a shoulder injury all fall, is ready, but another bad bump may again injure the shoulder; John Jenkins bruised a hip in Tuesday's practice but it is hoped he will be ready to go; Don Henry has a game leg; Bill Friley has a split tongue and George Rader is recovering from an infected foot.

The linemen, however, the boys who take plenty of bumps, are in apparent good condition.

Lineup Uncertain

Landrum is far from set on his starting lineup with the injury series cutting into his plans. It is said that he may push Dave Jackson into a tackle position replacing Red Ruff and that he might juggle his guards considerably. Jim Henderson, who has not reached the heights expected of him as a ball carrier, might see service at an end. He is a good tackler and may cut down the return other teams have been making after punts.

Officials for the Friday game which starts at 3 o'clock are Coleman, referee; Kathernan, umpire, and Harris, head linesman.

Grandview has a strong eleven, a big squad and is well-equipped. The team has lost a couple of close contests and will be in for another tough assignment here Friday, it is believed.

The starting lineups may look something like this:

C. H. S.		GRANDVIEW

Famed Football Player and Herald Comic Strip Hero

I'm not bragging but didja see how I picked the football winners last week? Out of 25 games named Mr. Gibbs' smart little son picked 21 right and once stumbled three times. The Alabama game was tie (I picked "Banai"). Who wouldn't?

That gives you pal a winning percentage of .875, which is plenty enough to lead any big league.

Here are my choices for Saturday. I name the winner first in each case. Let's go:

- Alabama—George Washington.
- Army—William and Mary.
- Brown—Rhode Island.
- California—St. Mary's.
- Colgate—St. Lawrence.
- Columbia—Virginia Military.
- Dartmouth—Vermont.
- Fordham—Boston college.
- Georgetown—Albright.
- Georgia Tech—Sewanee.
- Harvard—Springfield.
- Illinois—Washington U.
- Indiana—Centre.
- Michigan—Michigan (Sate).
- New York U.—Bates.
- Ohio State—Kentucky.
- Notre Dame—Carnegie Tech.
- Oklahoma—New Mexico.
- Pittsburgh—Wash. & Jefferson.
- Princeton—Pennsylvania.
- Southern California—Pacific.
- Purdue—Northwestern.
- Stanford—San Francisco.
- Tennessee—North Carolina.
- Tulane—Alabama Poly.
- Utah—Oregon.
- Vanderbilt—Cumberland.
- Wisconsin—Marquette.
- Yale—New Hampshire.

Gabby's Grid Guesses

By GABBY GIBBS
Famed Football Player and Herald Comic Strip Hero

I'm not bragging but didja see how I picked the football winners last week? Out of 25 games named Mrs. Gibbs' smart little son picked 21 right and only stumbled three times. The Alabama game was tie (I picked 'Bama). Who wouldn't? That gives you pal a winning percentage of .875, which is plenty enough to lead any big league. Here are my choices for Saturday. I name the winner first in each case. Let's go:

Alabama—George Washington. Army—William and Mary. Brown—Rhode Island. California—St. Mary's. Colgate—St. Lawrence. Columbia—Virginia Military. Dartmouth—Vermont. Fordham—Boston college. Georgetown—Albright. Georgia Tech—Sewanee. Harvard—Springfield. Illinois—Washington U. Indiana—Centre. Michigan—Michigan (Sate. New York U.—Bates. Ohio State—Kentucky. Notre Dame—Carnegie Tech. Oklahoma—New Mexico. Oregon State—U. C. L. A. Pittsburgh—Wash. & Jefferson. Princeton—Pennsylvania. Southern California—Pacific. Purdue—Northwestern. Stanford—San Francisco. Tennessee—North Carolina. Tulane—Alabama Poly. Utah—Oregon. Vanderbilt—Cumberland. Wisconsin—Marquette. Yale—New Hampshire.

Far from being unsuccessful in their search for a presidential candidate, the Republicans can't even find anyone who doesn't choose to run.

DETROIT FANS STILL HOPING FOR VICTORY

Believe Bridges Can Pull Team Back as Root is Chicago Choice

DETROIT, Oct. 3—Forty-eight thousand people, the durable fans of the profession, will be back at Navin field today for the second game of the world series between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs, utterly oblivious and unimpressed by the fact that the Cubs looked to be twice the better ball club yesterday, winning 3-0. It's that kind of a town. They got no show yesterday, so they'll be back this afternoon with the idea that it was all a big mistake. Men buy old stocks on much the same principle.

Briefly, I'm beginning to feel that it is easier to lick the Detroit ball clubs than it is to lick the Detroit populace. The latter is always there. The Detroit ball club sometimes isn't.

Warneke Big Show

It wasn't yesterday when Lon Warneke gave a one-man show by limiting the attack to nine balls hit beyond the infield and equaling the series record with eight personal and eminently satisfactory assists. It took a comedian like Nick Altrock to establish the record in question. Maybe this idea means something. There has been nothing more comic than the efforts of the Tigers so far.

Today, however, as officially designated by Commissioner Landis, is a different day and perhaps a little pitching will instill a vestige of life in a club that yesterday seemed to be permanently extinct.

The point is that Tom Bridges might stop the Cubs today and any club that is stopped is automatically a club that ought to resign itself to the corner. That's why the Tigers looked so desultory yesterday. There is something very essential about the art of hitting. It simply cannot be practiced unless one gets one's bat off one's shoulder. Yesterday one didn't. Neither did nine.

Root on Mound

The pitcher to oppose Bridges is Charlie Root, sturdy oak of the Chicago staff. Charles is quite a man if he gets beyond three innings. The point is that his world series record says that he has seldom got beyond six and never as far as nine innings. Maybe the Chicago club doesn't believe in precedent. Maybe it doesn't believe in anything.

DERBY

William Bauhan 86

William Bauhan celebrated his 86th birthday Tuesday, Sept. 24, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bertha Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bartlett of Columbus called on Mrs. Alma Hays Sunday afternoon.

Everett Eakin and Ray Ridgway attended the M. E. Laymen's conference at Columbus last Friday and Saturday as delegate and alternate from this district.

Rev. Ensley attended the M. E. Conference last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Spangler and family of Lybank were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Vance and family.

We had a frost here Sunday night. Tomato tops and Dahlia tops were cut.

Streamlining is a great idea. The old square-built car couldn't roll over enough times to get off the highway.

CLUB'S CADDIES TO HAVE TOURNEY

The first of what is to be an annual affair at the Pickaway Country club, "Caddies Day", will be conducted Saturday.

The boys will play golf in the morning with a Blind Bogey tournament arranged.

The following prizes have been donated.
Joseph's store, a sweater; Caddy Miller Hat shop, a sweater; Brunner jewelry, fountain pen; C. T. Gilmore, one wood club; Barrere-Nickerson, one mashie; Frank Lynch, two cases of Coca Cola; the country club, four neckties; and the pro-shop, one club and balls.

The prizes were solicited by Emil Hrobon, who is making every effort to make the affair a big one.

After 18 holes of golf the boys will dine to the menu of sauerkraut and weiners, baked beans and buns, ice cream, pop and pumpkin pie.

Any one having a contribution to the prize list can call the club professional at 1952.

VEY HITS STATE PRISON

Sherill Says Ohio Penitentiary "About Worst"; Penal System Wrong

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—The Ohio Government Survey Committee, through Col. C. O. Sherill, former Cincinnati city manager, today ripped wide open the state's penal system and branded the Ohio penitentiary here "the worst institution of its kind in the United States."

The recommendations of the committee of "business experts," appointed by Gov. Martin L. Davey to study the entire state government and recommend economies, discouraged construction of new prisons, but advocated five "possibilities" to correct "disgraceful" conditions:

- 1—Careful study with a view to providing proper facilities for permanent care of mentally defective and psychopathic criminals now serving temporary sentences in considerable numbers in penal and correctional institutions;
- 2—Development of a thorough-going, well administered system of probation and parole;
- 3—Larger use of the colony plan for carefully selected offenders, thus taking them out of the institutions and making them in a great measure self-supporting;
- 4—Study modern methods of reformatory procedure for the "hopeful" type of offenders and the most economical and effective means of providing such a program; and
- 5—Establish a state system of psychiatric and child guidance clinics.

The report pointed expressly to the release of Merton Goodrich, convicted Detroit, Mich. child-slayer, from the Lima state hospital for criminally insane, as evidence of the weakness of Ohio's prison system.

An attempt was made to hold him (Goodrich) at the Lima state hospital but as he was insane emotionally rather than legally, his release was forced on habeas corpus proceedings only to enable him to commit his final and most notorious crime," the committee observed in transmitting its report to Davey.

FOUR TRUSTEES OF PENSION SYSTEMS

Four councilmen were re-elected trustees of the police and firemen's boards by council last night. Terms of the trustees expired in September.

Julius Helwegren and W. M. Reid were renominated to the police board, and Ben Gordon and C. O. Leist, continue as trustees on the firemen's board.

Councilman W. F. Baker recommended the men be re-elected, and in cases where their terms might expire this year, a successor would be elected later.

VETS HIT SPAGHT

LORAIN—Spanish War Veterans of the Lorain post today voted to urge Gov. Martin L. Davey to dismiss Oakley Spaght as assistant state welfare director. Spaght's recent statement concerning laziness of veterans in the Sandusky home is blamed.

HOLC SUB-OFFICES CLOSED ON MONDAY

The sub-district offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation at Lancaster, Urbana and Xenia in the Columbus District, and Defiance, Napoleon and Findlay in the Toledo District were closed at the expiration of business Monday, Sept. 30. This action was taken in the interest of economy of operation in view of the fact that only a very few loan applications remained to be acted upon in these offices. State Manager Henry C. Brunner said.

The remaining applications in the territory served by these offices will be handled directly through the Columbus, Springfield and Toledo offices respectively, and the personnel which has been employed in the closed offices will be transferred to Columbus, Springfield and Toledo for the completion of the work of the closing of the pending loans. The closed offices were established about two years ago at the beginning of the Home Owners' Loan operations in Ohio in August, 1934. The sub-district office at Wilmington, Ohio, was closed on September 15.

RELIEF FUNDS TO PAINT BERGER ROOF

Council directed L. T. Shaner, safety director, to use relief funds for labor costs in repainting a part of the roof at Berger hospital.

Mr. Shaner reported the work had been listed as a WPA project but no approval has been given and the paint must be used during warm weather. He recommended the work be done by city relief clients. He estimated the labor expense would range from $20 to $30. The paint has been purchased for the work.

Italians Attack

high-speed charge of light tanks and heavy calibre guns spitting out a terrific barrage over the heads of the covering troops.

Later on the Italian attackers from Mareb came back to the rear escorting a group of terrified frightened women, children, and Ethiopian prisoners.

I returned to Asmara at 4:00 a. m. Thursday to witness a tremendous demonstration in favor of the Italian advance into Ethiopia.

Whistles, bells, and a terrific din of cheering mixed with searchlights reaching like fingers into the Ethiopian sky celebrated the actual beginning of the fighting.

The city was plunged into darkness in the midst of a demonstration to safeguard itself against a possible surprise attack by the Ethiopian air force, but despite this the celebration of blacks and whites continued with yelling and cheering.

"Long live Il Duce!" they cried. "On to the frontier! Lead us on the way!"

NICE, France, Oct. 3.—French garrisons on the Italian border have been reinforced, it was understood here today.

All frontier police were ordered to tighten up their watches.

Although strict secrecy was maintained, it was understood precautionary measures have been taken by military headquarters in connection with the Italian border.

COMMODITY MART SOARS IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 3.—War news sent the commodity markets soaring today.

Tin, copper, and other war commodities staged big gains, while Liverpool spot wheat spurted to the highest point since 1930.

Cotton was marked up 17 points. Stock market dealers at first marked prices down on most boards as a precautionary measure. At 3:00 p. m. stocks were lifeless.

OFFICIAL SHORT

NEWARK—The accounts of Ellis J. Wright, Licking-co treasurer who has been missing for three months, were found short by $10,753.23, his successor, James E. Lloyd, Newark, announced today. Lloyd was aided in the check-up by state examiners.

FRENCH ATTACK ITALIAN COUNCIL

TOULOUSE, France, Oct. 3.—Several persons were injured today and the Italian consul here was forced to accept police protection during a demonstration which occurred with the departure of 50 Italians for Rome.

Shouting "Down with the Mussolini war!" a crowd invaded the railway station where the Italians escorted by the council, were awaiting a train.

It was learned 4,000 Italians in the Toulouse district received recall orders from Rome, but only 50 so far have obeyed.

ELEVATOR FALL FATAL

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Injured when an elevator in a downtown building fell last week, Emma C. Johnson, 47, Lancaster, died today in a local hospital.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Governor Davey today announced he has offered to Former Congressman C. Ellis Moore (R), Cambridge, the vacant position on the state parole board.

First and Second Grades

Glenn Gerhardt, Bobbie Morris, Betty Ruth Mills and Betty Anne Slager were on the spelling honor roll in the second grade last week.

We have started a teeth brushing contest between the boys and girls. At the end of six weeks the side which has the most stars on the chart receives a prize.

We are working on a health poster which will have on it the fruits and vegetables which are friends of children.

Third and Fourth Grades
We are keeping a diary of our journey across the United States and mounting anything we find concerning the cities we visit.

A border of dishes of fruit has been placed around the wall of our room.

In the third grade Betty Holt, Dickie Nixon, and Janet Turner were on the spelling honor roll last week. Doris Dean, Carl Speakman, Virginia Gerhardt, Mary Stevenson, Carolyn Gerhardt, Inez Williams and Lizzie Belle Bowles received all one hundred in spelling in the fourth grade.

Fifth and Sixth Grades
Mack Zeide has entered our sixth grade coming from Urbana. This makes twelve students in the sixth and eighteen in the fifth grade.

Seventh and Eighth Grades—BF
Our room won the attendance banner last week.

The eighth graders are busily engaged in making "news" for the schools Pumpkin Show exhibit.

High School
The freshman English class has been writing themes for which the members select their own topics.

The members of Miss Oglesbee's Home Economics class are preparing vegetable dishes this week.

Thirty-eight students and teachers will attend the Kentucky-Ohio State Football game at Columbus on Saturday.

Attendance
The fifth and sixth grades had the highest per cent of attendance for the month. Their being boys, 97.6 per cent; girls, 98.5 per cent; and a total of 98.1 per cent. Music
The pupils of the first and second grades are coloring pictures which illustrate songs they are learning.

Speakman; secretary - treasurer, Edson Florence; advisor, Mr. Downing.
The senior class ordered their rings last Wednesday from the J. O. Stens Company.

Athletic News
Baseball and football started off the season. All of the boys took a great interest in the fall sport, football, after Coach Terhune changed it from the usual fall sport of speed ball.

The girls have been playing baseball and are expecting to play an exciting game with Ashville, Friday, October 4.

Basket ball is to be started by both boys and girls this week. Mr. Terhune will coach both boys and girls this year.

Nearly twenty five boys and girls are planning to attend the football game in Columbus Saturday.

Glee Clubs
Officers of the girls glee club are: President, Virginia Walters; vice president, Helen Kern; secretary, Helen Walters; treasurer, Mary Bumgarner; reporter, Virginia Hulse; advisor, Miss Wilson.

Officers of the boys clubs are: president, Winfred Bidwell; vice president, John Speakman; secretary, Paul Thompson.

We are planning to start on an operetta, The Ghost of Lolly Pop Bay, next week.

Elementary School
A number of boys and girls have completed attractive posters on the junior fair exhibit being held in connection with the Pumpkin Show.

The fifth grade is working hard to keep the attendance banner this week. They have held it for the past two weeks.

ROBOT FARM HAND
BERLIN A robot farm hand is one of the latest inventions on view at the Leipzig Fair. It is a mechanical device which fills the cattle's manger as at the right hours with the right quantity of fodder. When necessary, it moistens the fodder with the right quantity of water. Every action is automatic.

SURVEY HITS STATE PRISON

Sherrill Says Ohio Penitentiary "About Worst"; Penal System Wrong

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—The Ohio Government Survey committee, through Col. C. O. Sherrill, former Cincinnati city manager, today ripped wide open the state's penal system and branded the Ohio penitentiary here "the worst institution of its kind in the United States."

The recommendations of the committee of "business experts," appointed by Gov. Martin L. Davey to study the entire state government and recommend economic, discouraged construction of new prisons, but advocated five "possibilities" to correct "disgraceful" conditions:

- 1—Careful study with a view to providing proper facilities for permanent care of mentally defective and psychopathic criminals now serving temporary sentences in considerable numbers in penal and correctional institutions;
- 2—Development of a thorough-going, well administered system of probation and parole;
- 3—Larger use of the colony plan for carefully selected offenders, thus taking them out of the institutions and making them in a great measure self-supporting;
- 4—Study modern methods of reformatory procedure for the "hopeful" type of offenders and the most economical and effective means of providing such a program; and
- 5—Establish a state system of psychiatric and child guidance clinics.

The report pointed expressly to the release of Merton Goodrich, convicted Detroit, Mich. child-slayer, from the Lima state hospital for criminally insane, as evidence of the weakness of Ohio's prison system.

"An attempt was made to hold him (Goodrich) at the Lima state hospital but as he was insane emotionally rather than legally, his release was forced on habeas corpus proceedings only to enable him to commit his final and most notorious crime," the committee observed in transmitting its report to Davey.

FOUR TRUSTEES OF PENSION SYSTEMS

Four councilmen were re-elected trustees of the police and firemen's boards by council last night. Terms of the trustees expired in September.

Julius Helwag and W. M. Reid were renominated to the police board, and Ben Gordon and C. O. Leist, continue as trustees on the firemen's board.

Councilman W. F. Baker recommended the men be re-elected, and in cases where their terms might expire this year, a successor would be elected later.

VETS HIT SPAGHT

LORAIN—Spanish War Veterans of the Lorain post today voted to urge Gov. Martin L. Davey to dismiss Oakley Spaght as assistant state welfare director. Spaght's recent statement concerning laziness of veterans in the Sandusky home is blamed.

HOLC SUB-OFFICES CLOSED ON MONDAY

The sub-district offices of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation at Lancaster, Urbana and Xenia in the Columbus District, and Defiance, Napoleon and Findlay in the Toledo District were closed at the expiration of business on Monday, Sept. 30. This action was taken in the interest of economy of operation in view of the fact that only a very few loan applications remained to be acted upon in these offices. State Manager Henry G. Brunner said.

The remaining applications in the territory served by these offices will be handled directly through the Columbus, Springfield and Toledo offices respectively, and the personnel which has been employed in the closed offices will be transferred to Columbus, Springfield and Toledo for the completion of the work of closing the pending loans. The closed offices were established about two years ago at the beginning of the Home Owners' Loan operations in Ohio in August, 1933. The sub-district office at Wilmington, Ohio, was closed on September 15.

RELIEF FUNDS TO PAINT BERGER ROOF

Council directed L. T. Shaner, safety director, to use relief funds for labor costs in repainting a part of the roof at Berger hospital.

Mr. Shaner reported the work had been listed as a WPA project but no approval has been given and the paint must be used during warm weather. He recommended the work be done by city relief clients. He estimated the labor expense would range from $20 to $30. The paint has been purchased for the work.

Italians Attack

high-speed charge of light tanks and heavy calibre guns spitting out a terrific barrage over the heads of the covering troops.

Later on the Italian attackers from Mareb came back to the rear escorting a group of terrified frightened women, children, and Ethiopian prisoners.

I returned to Asmara at 4:00 a. m. Thursday to witness a tremendous demonstration in favor of the Italian advance into Ethiopia.

Whistles, bells, and a terrific din of cheering mixed with searchlights reaching like fingers into the Ethiopian sky celebrated the actual beginning of the fighting.

The city was plunged into darkness in the midst of a demonstration to safeguard itself against a possible surprise attack by the Ethiopian air force, but despite this the celebration of blacks and whites continued with yelling and cheering.

"Long live Il Duce!" they cried. "On to the frontier! Lead us on the way!"

NICE, France, Oct. 3.—French garrisons on the Italian border have been reinforced, it was understood here today.

All frontier police were ordered to tighten up their watches. Although strict secrecy was maintained, it was understood precautionary measures have been taken by military headquarters in connection with the Italian border.

COMMODITY MART SOARS IN ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 3.—War news sent the commodity markets soaring today.

Tin, copper, and other war commodities staged big gains, while Liverpool spot wheat spurted to the highest point since 1930.

Cotton was marked up 17 points. Stock market dealers at first marked prices down on most boards as a precautionary measure. At 3:00 p. m. stocks were lifeless.

OFFICIAL SHORT

NEWARK—The accounts of Ellis J. Wright, Licking co. treasurer who has been missing for three months, were found short by $10,753.23, his successor, James E. Lloyd, Newark, announced today. Lloyd was aided in the check-up by state examiners.

FRENCH ATTACK ITALIAN COUNCIL

TOULOUSE, France, Oct. 3.—Several persons were injured today and the Italian consul here was forced to accept police protection during a demonstration which occurred with the departure of 50 Italians for Rome.

Shouting "Down with the Mussolini war!" a crowd invaded the railway station where the Italians escorted by the consul, were awaiting a train.

It was learned 4,000 Italians in the Toulouse district received recall orders from Rome, but only 50 so far have obeyed.

ELEVATOR FALL FATAL

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Injured when an elevator in a downtown building fell last week, Emma C. Johnson, 47, Lancaster, died today in a local hospital.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 3.—Governor Davey today announced he has offered to Former Congressman C. Ellis Moore (R), Cambridge, the vacant position on the state parole board.

Colorful Quilt in Four Materials

Garden Treasure

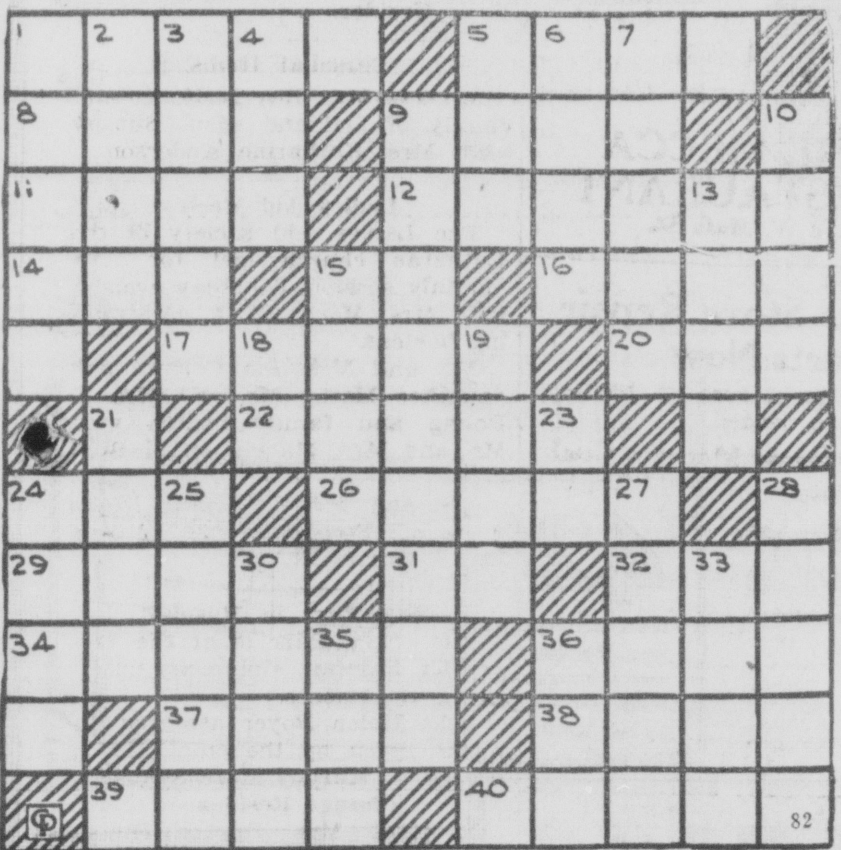

PATTERN 5452

The morning glory that closes the sun's bright rays, will bloom in continual glory on this quilt. So easy to grow—so lovely in color and form, it has well-earned this name of Garden Treasure for itself. You can get the shaded effect of the flower by using two materials used in it. If you want to have something smart, delight that bride-to-be, make a pillow using one block set into plain material.

In pattern 5452 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 210 N. Court-st., Circleville, Ohio.

GAS HEAT BANISHES FURNACE TROUBLES IN MORRIS HOME

Clean Heat of Uniform Temperature is Furnished to Circleville Residence

This 8-room home of Mrs. Estella Morris, North Court Street is conveniently and economically heated by gas throughout the heating season at an average cost of only $13 per month. And that is why Mrs. Morris says, "I am very well pleased with gas heat."

Why Not Gas Heat For Your Home?

Surely the advantages of gas heat appeal to you—even temperatures, much less cleaning and no furnace tending. Why, then, don't you have gas heat? Is cost standing in your way? Perhaps it isn't at all because gas heat likely costs much less than you may think. That's what others tell us.

There's one way to find out. A phone call will bring a competent representative to estimate the cost of gas heat for your home. He will tell you, also, what other homes of similar size as yours paid for gas heat last winter. Furnishing this information incurs no obligation so why not ask for it at once?

IRONTON—With five murders reported in recent months, county officials today were hunting a sex slayer. The latest victim was Helen Shannon, attractive stage-grapher, who was found attacked and slain in a field.

YOUTH IS FREED ON BRAWL CHARGE

Charles Watson, 20, New Holland youth recently fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Cincinnati workhouse, has been released on good behavior according to an announcement Thursday morning from H. O. Evland, justice of peace.

Evland arranged the youth's release after a group of citizens from New Holland beset Charles did not take part in the altercation during which Charles Hill, New Holland marshall, suffered a severe head injury. The fight took place in an alley on the closing night of the New Holland centennial celebration.

Roy Watson, father of Charles, is still in the workhouse under the same fine and sentence given his son.

CITIZENS ASK ALLEY REPAIRS

Property owners along the alley extending from Watt-st. to the Charles Smith packing house at Hargus creek, presented a petition to council asking the roadway be graveled and repaired.

The petition explained heavy rains had caused deep cuts in the roadway. It was referred to the service committee.
